Oklahoma Hall of Fame Hosts Stone Family: Artist Lecture

OKLAHOMA CITY – The Oklahoma Hall of Fame at the Gaylord-Pickens Museum is hosting the temporary exhibit, Willard Stone Centennial: A Legacy of Art Through Family in the museum's Tulsa World | Lorton Family Gallery through Apr. 30. Willard Stone Centennial coincides with the mission of the gallery and museum to showcase Oklahoma artists. A lecture will be held on Thurs., Mar. 24 in conjunction with the exhibit.

Exhibiting regionally and nationally, Willard Stone gained world-wide recognition for his stylized figures of humans and animals created from a variety of locally grown wood and occasionally cast in ceramic or bronze. Stone's work is preserved in public and private collections throughout the United States and abroad. On February 29, 2016, Willard Stone would have celebrated his 100th Birthday.

“He believed every piece of wood had a story to tell and using a pocket knife and chisel, he unveiled that story,” said Linda Stone Callery, the artist's daughter. “He had a lot to say about creation, politics, war and life in general, and he expressed his thoughts through animals, birds, men, women and children. He had a great sense of humor, often conveyed through his pieces.”

The Oklahoma Hall of Fame is hosting an artist lecture in continued celebration of Willard Stone's 100th birthday this year. “Stone Family: Artist Lecture” will be held on Thurs., Mar. 24 from 6 to 7 p.m. The lecture is at the Gaylord-Pickens Museum in Midtown Oklahoma City and features Linda Stone, daughter of the late Willard Stone. Admission is $3 and RSVP's are encouraged to Marissa Raglin at 405.523.3231 or mbr@oklahomahof.com.

Willard Stone Centennial: A Legacy of Art Through Family is a multi-media exhibit showcasing artwork by the late Willard Stone and his family members and will be on display at the Oklahoma Hall of Fame at the Gaylord-Pickens Museum, located at 1400 Classen Drive in Oklahoma City. For more information about this exhibit or the Museum's Tulsa World | Lorton Family Gallery, contact Marissa Raglin at mbr@oklahomahof.com.
